What is a food hub?

A food hub helps connect small growers with the community by offering a combination of production, distribution, and marketing services so growers and gatherers can do what is important to them... grow and gather.

How will the Naawayi'ii Food Hub operate?

Producers will be in close communication with the Fond du Lac Agricultural Division by updating what goods they have available each week via an online portal, customers will then be able to purchase these goods via a website, the Ag. Division will then organize/collect the goods from producers and put them into food boxes which will then be available for customer pick-up weekly on Friday's located at Na'enimonigamig. More details to come!

If you would like future updates as either a producer or consumer, please send your email to Camifischer@FDLREZ.com
